

How we embed British Values into our Art and Design Curriculum

Democracy

Our art curriculum promotes democracy by encouraging pupils to share ideas, express opinions, and collaborate respectfully with others. Children are given opportunities to discuss artwork, evaluate creative choices, and contribute their own ideas during group projects and class discussions.

Individual Liberty

Our staff encourage individuality, imagination, and self-expression. Pupils are given the freedom to explore ideas, experiment with different techniques, and make personal creative choices within their artwork. Children are supported to take risks, develop confidence in their abilities, and express their thoughts and emotions through a range of artistic experiences in a safe and supportive environment.

Mutual Respect & Tolerance

Respect is embedded throughout the art curriculum as pupils learn to value their own work and the creative efforts of others. Children are encouraged to give constructive feedback, celebrate differences in artistic style, and support one another during creative activities.

Our Art lessons provides opportunities for pupils to explore and appreciate artwork from a wide range of cultures, traditions, and beliefs. Children learn about artists and artistic styles from around the world, helping them to develop respect for diversity and different forms of expression.

Rule of Law

Our Art lessons help pupils understand the importance of rules, routines, and responsibility within a creative environment. Children learn to use tools, materials, and equipment safely and respectfully while following instructions to ensure a positive and productive learning experience.
